

The JTA Skyway is a 2.5-mile-long, fully-automated, elevated monorail system gliding high above the busy streets of the Downtown core and crossing the St. Johns River to Kings Avenue on the Southbank. It features eight stations — five in Downtown, three on the Southbank — providing convenient access to businesses and government offices, restaurants and shops and museums and entertainment venues.

Traveling via the Skyway is comfortable and efficient with quiet, climate-controlled, non-polluting vehicles departing stations at six-minute intervals (every three minutes from Central Station) and electronic message boards with real-time arrival and departure information at every station. All Skyway stations are monitored by closed-circuit TV, and each train is equipped with two-way voice communication and video cameras.

In keeping with JTA's original people mover plan, Park-n-Ride lots at the Convention Center, San Marco and Kings Avenue stations enable employees, residents and visitors to leave their vehicles on the periphery of Downtown and travel in to and out of the core without the hassles of traffic or parking. Since JTA's buses and Riverside Trolley connect with the Skyway, passengers have the flexibility to travel beyond Downtown to virtually anywhere JTA travels.
